

Industry outlook & upskilling

Technological changes in the modern world have the potential to completely transform our industries as we know them. In the face of such possibilities, we need to keep track of industry trends and identify ways to keep up with them. Being a leader in your industry, you are uniquely placed to understand such changes and the appropriate reactions to them. These insights are invaluable to your mentees and this template is designed to help you share them.

Which industry trends will become significant forces in the coming years?

How exactly will these trends transform working in the industry?

Considering these trends, what skills will become paramount in the near future?

What are the best ways to ensure you obtain the above skillset?